10 (1) This section applies when, for any purpose of this Act, it is necessary to determine the applicable hourly, daily, weekly or monthly rate of pay of an employee -

- (a) whose remuneration is based on a different time interval; or
- (b) who is remunerated on a basis other than time worked.

(2) If an employee is remunerated on a basis other than time worked, that employee must be considered, for the purpose of this section, to be remunerated on a weekly basis, and that employee's basic weekly wage must be calculated as follows:

- (a) total the amount of monetary remuneration earned by the employee during -
 - (i) the immediately preceding 13 weeks of work; or
 - (ii) if the employee has been in employment for a shorter period, that shorter period of work; and
- (b) divide that total by the number of weeks the employee worked to determine the employee's average weekly wage.

(3) To determine the comparable hourly, daily, weekly or monthly wage rate of an employee who is paid on an hourly, daily, weekly, fortnightly or monthly basis -

- (a) in the first column of Table 1 below, locate the line for that employee's applicable pay period;
- (b) read across on that line to the column for the desired comparable wage rate, as indicated in the first line of the table; and
- (c) apply the formula set out in the cell of the table thus located.

Table 1 – Calculation of comparable wage rates

	To calculate hourly rates	To calculate daily rates	To calculate weekly rates	To calculate monthly rates
Employees whose remuneration is set by the hour		Multiply the hourly rate by the number of ordinary hours of work each day.	Multiply the hourly rate by the number of ordinary hours of work each week.	Calculate the weekly rate, then multiply the calculated weekly rate by 4,333.
Employees whose remuneration is set by the day	Divide the daily rate by the number of ordinary hours of work each day.		Multiply the daily rate by the number of ordinary days of work each week.	Calculate the weekly rate, then multiply the calculated weekly rate by 4,333.
Employees whose remuneration is set by the week	Divide the weekly rate (or calculated weekly rate) by the number of ordinary hours of work each week.	Divide the weekly rate (or calculated weekly rate) by the number of ordinary days of work each week.		Multiply the weekly rate (or calculated weekly rate) by 4,333.
Employees whose remuneration is set by the fortnight	Divide the fortnightly rate by two times the number of ordinary hours of work each week.	Divide the fortnightly rate by two times the number of ordinary days of work each week.	Divide the fortnightly rate by two.	Calculate the weekly rate, then multiply the calculated weekly rate by 4,333.
Employees whose remuneration is set by the month	Divide the monthly rate by (4,33 times the number of hours ordinarily worked each week).	Divide the monthly rate by (4,33 times the number of days ordinarily worked each week).	Divide the monthly rate by 4,333.

- (4) For the purposes of Table 1 in subsection (3) -

PART D COLLECTIVE AGREEMENTS

Legal effect of collective agreements

- 68. (1) A collective agreement binds -
- (a) the parties to the agreement;
 - (b) the members of any registered trade union that is a party to the agreement;
 - (c) the members of any registered employers' organisation that is a party to the agreement;
 - (d) the employees in the recognised bargaining unit, if a trade union that is a party to the agreement has been recognised as an exclusive bargaining agent in terms of section 62; and
 - (e) any other employees, employers, registered trade unions or registered employers' organisations to whom the agreement has been extended in terms of section 69.

(2) A collective agreement binds for the whole period of the agreement every person bound in terms of subsection (1)(b) and (c) who was a member at the time it became binding or who becomes a member after it became binding, irrespective of whether or not that person continues to be a member of the registered trade union or registered employers' organisation for the duration of the agreement.

(3) The provisions of a collective agreement relating to the terms and conditions of employment vary every contract of employment between an employee and an employer who are both bound by the agreement.

(4) Unless the agreement expressly states otherwise, a collective agreement does not preclude the conclusion of a contract of employment that contains terms and conditions more favourable than those contained in the agreement.

Extension of collective agreements to non-parties

69. (1) Despite section 1, for the purposes of this section, "collective agreement" means an agreement between an employer or a registered employers' organisation and a registered trade union that is recognised by that employer or employers' organisation in terms of section 62.

(2) The parties to a collective agreement may ask the Minister, in the prescribed form, to extend that agreement to employers and employees -

- (a) who are not members of the parties to the agreement; and
 - (b) who fall within the scope of the agreement.
- (3) The Minister must -
- (a) publish a request made in terms of subsection (2) in the Gazette; and
 - (b) invite objections to the request within a period specified in the Gazette, which period must not exceed 30 days as from the date of publication of request in the Gazette;
 - (c) serve copies of any objection received in terms of paragraph (b) on the parties to the agreement; and
 - (d) in the prescribed form, invite responses to those objections within a period, which must not extend more than 14 days as from the date of invitation.
- (4) The Minister -
- (a) must not extend a collective agreement unless -
 - (i) the Minister has considered any objection or response received in terms of subsection (3); and
 - (ii) the Minister is satisfied that -
 - (aa) the agreement is not in conflict with the Constitution or any law;
 - (bb) the agreement is not, on the whole, less favourable than the terms and conditions of employment that applied to employees immediately before the conclusion of the agreement;

- (cc) the agreement provides for an arbitration procedure to resolve disputes about its interpretation, application and enforcement; and
 - (dd) the request to extend the agreement complies with this section; but,
- (b) if that agreement meets all the requirements set out in paragraph (a), the Minister must extend that collective agreement for a fixed period to the parties contemplated in subsection (2), by publishing a notice to that effect in the Gazette.
- (5) After a notice contemplated in subsection (4)(b) has been published, the Minister may, at the request of the parties to the collective agreement, publish a further notice in the Gazette -
 - (a) extending the period specified in the earlier notice by a further period determined by the Minister;
 - (b) if the period specified in the earlier notice has expired, declaring a new date from which, and a further period during which, the provisions of the earlier notice will be effective; or
 - (c) cancelling all or part of the notice published in terms of subsection (4).
- (6) Subsections (2) through to (4), read with the necessary changes, apply in respect of the publication of any notice in terms of subsection (5)(a) or (b).
- (7) In addition to publication of any information in the Gazette as contemplated in this section, the Minister must, where appropriate, publish the information through other available means, with a view to ensuring that the intended recipients of the information receive the information.

Exemptions from an extended collective agreement

- 70. (1) Any person bound by the extension of a collective agreement under section 69 may apply in the prescribed form to the Minister for an exemption from the extension of the agreement.
- (2) If the Minister is satisfied that special circumstances exist justifying an exemption applied for, the Minister may -
- (a) exempt the person who has applied in terms of subsection (1) by notice in writing; and
 - (b) may subject the exemption to any condition.
- (3) The Minister must serve a copy of any exemption granted in terms of this section on the parties to the collective agreement.
- (4) The parties to the collective agreement, or the person who applied for an exemption in terms of subsection (1), may appeal to the Labour Court against any decision made by the Minister under this section.

Disputes arising from application, interpretation or enforcement of a collective agreement

71. (1) Every collective agreement must provide for an arbitration procedure to resolve any dispute about the interpretation, application or enforcement of the agreement unless provision is made in another collective agreement for the resolution of that dispute.

(2) If there is a dispute contemplated in subsection (1), any party to the dispute may refer the dispute to the Labour Commissioner if -

- (a) the collective agreement does not provide for a procedure as required by subsection (1);
- (b) the procedure is not operative; or
- (c) any party to the collective agreement frustrates the resolution of the dispute in terms of the collective agreement.

(3) The party who refers the dispute to the Labour Commissioner must satisfy the Labour Commissioner that a copy of the referral has been served on all the other parties to the dispute.

- (c) after the end of the applicable period contemplated in paragraph (b), a party has given 48 hours notice, in the prescribed form, of the commencement of the strike or lockout to the Labour Commissioner and the other parties to the dispute; and
- (d) the strike or lockout conforms to -
 - (i) any agreed rules regulating the conduct of the strike or lockout; or

(ii) any rules determined by the conciliator in terms of subsection (2).

(2) If a dispute referred in terms of subsection (1) cannot be resolved, a conciliator appointed in terms of section 80(3)(a) to conciliate the dispute must -

- (a) attempt to reach agreement on rules to regulate the conduct of the strike or lockout, and
 - (b) if the parties do not reach such an agreement, determine rules in accordance with any guidelines or Code of Good Practice published by the Minister in terms of section 135.
- (3) If the Labour Commissioner refers a dispute for conciliation, and -
- (a) the party who referred the dispute in terms of subsection (1) fails to attend that hearing, the period contemplated in subsection (1)(b)(i) is extended to the date that is 30 days after the conciliation; or
 - (b) the other parties to the dispute do not attend that conciliation, the period contemplated in subsection (1)(b)(i) is shortened, and ends on the date of the conciliation.

Prohibition of certain strikes and lockouts

- 73. (1) A person must not take part in a strike or a lockout if -

(2) Despite any other law, an employee or member or official of a registered trade union may, in furtherance of a strike in compliance with this Chapter, hold a picket at or near the place of employment for the purpose of peacefully -

- (a) communicating information; and
- (b) persuading any individual not to work.

(3) Despite the provisions of any contract of employment or collective agreement, an employer must not require an employee who is not participating in a strike that is in compliance with this Chapter to do the work of a striking employee, unless the work is necessary to prevent any danger to the life, personal safety or health of any individual.

(4) An employee is entitled to resume employment within three days of the date -

- (a) that the strike or lockout ended; or
- (b) that the employee became aware or could reasonably have become aware of the end of the strike or lockout;

unless the employee has been dismissed for a valid and fair reason.

(5) A employer must not institute civil legal proceedings against any other person for participating in a strike or a lockout in compliance with this Chapter, unless those proceedings concern an act that constitutes defamation or a criminal offence.

(4) In addition to publishing a notice in the Gazette as contemplated in subsection (3)(a) and (c), the Minister must, through any other available means, publish the information contained in the notice, in order to ensure that the individuals whose interests are affected by the notices receive the information.

(5) The Essential Service Committee may vary or cancel the designation of any essential service by following subsections (3) and (4), read with the necessary changes.

(6) When the Essential Services Committee publishes a notice in terms of subsections (3)(a) and (4), any interested party may inspect any written representations made pursuant to that notice at the Labour Commissioner's office.

(7) A person may, in writing, refer a dispute about whether or not an employee or employer is engaged in an essential service to the Essential Service Committee.

(8) The party who refers a dispute to the Essential Services Committee must satisfy the Committee that a copy of the referral has been served on all the parties to the dispute.

(10) A person may apply to the Labour Court to review any decision of the Essential Service Committee.
